Godbole, Assistant Professor and preamble was given by Ms. Disha M. Dhabarde, Assistant Professor, Kamla Nehru College of Pharmacy, Nagpur.

The inaugural function was followed by two long sessions conducted Dr. Parimal P. Katolkar, Assistant Professor, Manoharbai Patel Institute of Pharmacy (B. Pharm.), Kudwa, Gondia.

In a two long sessions, Dr. Parimal P. Katolkar focuses on following points:

Patent system is a contract between the inventor and authority whereby the inventor gets exclusive rights for a period of 20 years in return for disclosing full details of the invention. A patent is a form of intellectual property. A patent gives its owner the right to exclude others from making, using, selling, and importing an invention for a limited period of time, usually twenty years. The patent rights are granted in exchange for an enabling public disclosure of the invention. An invention relating to a product or a process that is new, involving inventive step and capable of industrial application can be patented in India. However, it must not fall into the category of inventions that are non-patentable as provided under Section 3 and 4 of the (Indian) Patents Act, 1970. It is promotion of innovation—"useful Arts"—that is "the" stated purpose of patent law, at least as stated in the Constitution. But the Patent Act seeks to accomplish this goal by granting to the inventor a limited monopoly in exchange for disclosure. That is, patent law encourages disclosure of ideas by rewarding it.

The seminar was anchored by Ms. Kavita R. Pandey, Assistant Professor, Kamla Nehru College of Pharmacy, Butibori, Nagpur and the vote of thanks proposed by Ms. Seema Wakodkar, Assistant Professor, Kamla Nehru College of Pharmacy, Butibori, Nagpur. There was an overwhelming response to attend the seminar and 50 delegates registered for the conference. Mrs. Suhasine G. Wanjari, President, Amar Sewa Mandla, Nagpur and Adv. Abhijit G. Wanjari, Secretary, Amar Sewa Mandal, Nagpur congratulated Dr. S. N. Umathe, the Convenor and Ms. Disha M. Dhabarde, the Organizing Secretary and all teaching and non-teaching staff for the grand success of the programme.
