judiciously so that each and every individual gets sufficient amount of resources. ... So, to cater the needs of growing population and future generations, resources should be used judiciously by us. Dr. Pravin B. Suruse, Asst. Prof., speaks about the importance of rainwater harvesting. The importance of rainwater harvesting lies in the fact that it can be stored for future use. Just as it can be used directly so also the stored water can be utilized to revitalize the ground level water and improve its quality. This also helps to raise the level of ground water which then can be easily accessible.

Dr. Mahendra C. Gunde, Asst. Prof., speaks on importance of ground water. Groundwater, which is in aquifers below the surface of the Earth, is one of the Nation's most important natural resources. Groundwater is the source of about 37 percent of the water that county and city water departments supply to households and businesses (public supply). It provides drinking water for more than 90 percent of the rural population who do not get their water delivered to them from a county/city water department or private water company.

Many villagers and around 63 students were participated. The villagers ask for many more such activities.
